

Denver Water received approval on Sept. 17, 2013 from Boulder County to develop a small test quarry near Gross Reservoir Dam. This will allow us to study the potential to produce sand and gravel on site for the proposed enlargement of Gross Reservoir. Information related to this permit can be reviewed at bouldercounty.org.

The work will last three to four weeks depending on weather. Some small-scale blasting will be required to complete the work. We anticipate these blasts will occur Dec. 9 -12 during the hours of 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This schedule can change due to weather and other factors. If you have not already let us know you would like to be notified by email the day prior to each blast, and of potential schedule changes, please email publicinformation@denverwater.org.

For questions regarding this project, please contact Joe Sloan at the email listed above, or call 303-628-6320. Project information is available at denverwater.org/moffat.
